"Occidental Song"

Rendered by a Chorus of Over Four Thousand Policy Holders

(Composed by E. A. Vaughney, Special Agent.)

If you want to give protection to your babies and your wife
Investigate the offer of the OCCIDENTAL LIFE.
They've got a brand new contract that's so good in every way
That you can't afford to miss it and there's danger in delay.

The man upon the salary to meet the daily grind
If accidents or sickness comes he's sure to go behind
In these days of high prices the family must be fed.
He needs his daily salary to insure their daily bread.

If either one should come to you, of course you HOPE they won't.
Your salary or your earnings stop, but your expenses don't.
They double at a time like that, your savings melt like snow.
And if you have no savings saved, what you'd do I don't know.

The rent and grocer must be paid, what will the butcher say,
Your doctor bills and medicine count higher every day,
Your wife and children must be clothed, you can't do without coal,
And a hundred other bills come up that put you in the hole.

Can you afford to take this chance? There is a better way,
The cost is small, the price of one five cent cigar each day,
If accident or sickness comes, as come they may to you,
It buys an OCCIDENTAL BOND, that's bound to see you through.

They pay you an indemnity until you're well again,
And take your place among the ranks to work as other men,
The man that thinks that's up-to-date adopts this modern way,
It is the thing for you to do, there's danger in delay.

The OCCIDENTAL, Albuquerque, not a thousand miles away,
Means prompt adjustments, no red tape, claims paid without delay,
Arizona and New Mexico, with Texas by their side,
Is the home of THE OCCIDENTAL LIFE in which we all take pride.

Why send your money to the East? We're all men of the West.
Why build up Eastern cities when we love our own towns best?
Our money's all invested here to build this great Southwest,
It is our home, our all in life, the land we love best.

Then think this matter over some, and do it NOW! TODAY!
Then send for us. We'll do the rest. There's danger in delay.

SYNOPSIS OF FIRST CHAPTER.

Truxton King, an American millionaire's son, tired of the humdrum life and sets out to have some adventures. He reaches the kingdom of Graustark.

CHAPTER III.

MANY PERSONS IN REVIEW.

TRUXTON KING witnessed the review of the garrison. That in itself was rather a tame exhibition for a man who had seen the finest troops in all the world. A thousand earnest looking soldiers, proud of the opportunity to march before the little prince, and that was all, so far as the review was concerned.

Mr. King saw the court in all its glory scattered along the shady Castle avenue in carriages, in traps, in motors and in the saddle. His brain whirled and his heart leaped under the pressure of a new found interest in life.

If Truxton King had given up in disgust and fled to Vienna this tale would never have come to light. Instead of being the lively narrative of a young gentleman's adventures in faraway Graustark, it might have become a tale of the smart set in New York, for, as you know, we are bound by tradition to follow the trail laid down by our hero, no matter which way he elects to fare. He confided to his friend from Cook's that he could never have forgiven himself if he had adhered to his resolution to leave on the following day.

"I didn't know you'd changed your mind, sir," remarked Mr. Hobbs in surprise.

"Of course you didn't know it," said Truxton. "How could you? I've just changed it this instant. I didn't know it myself two minutes ago. No, sir, Hobbs—or is it Dobbs? Thanks, no, sir, I'm going to stop here for a week, a week or two. Where the dickens do these people keep themselves? I haven't seen 'em before."

"Oh, they are the nobility—the swells. They don't hang around the streets like tourists and rubbernecks, sir," in plain disgust.

"I say, who is that just passing—the lady in the victoria?" King asked abruptly.

"That is the Countess Marlanx."

"Where? I thought she was the queen."

Hobbs went into details concerning the beautiful countess.

"It was just going to ask if you know anything about a young woman who occasionally tends shop for William Spantz, the armorer," King finally asked.

Hobbs looked interested. "She's quite a beauty, sir, I give you my word."

"I know that, Hobbs. But who is she?"

"I really can't say, sir. She's his niece, I've heard. Been here a little over a month. I think she's from Warsaw."

"Well, I'll say goodbye here. If you've nothing on for tomorrow we'll visit the castle grounds and—ahem!—take a look about the place. Come to the hotel early. I'm going over to the gunshop."

He was whistling gayly as he entered the little shop, ready to give a cheery greeting to old Spantz and to make him a temporizing offer for the broadsword. But it was not Spantz who stood behind the little counter. Truxton flushed hotly and jerked off his hat. The girl smiled.

"I beg pardon," he exclaimed. "I'm looking for Mr. Spantz."

"He is out. Will you wait." She turned to the window, resuming the wistful, preoccupied gaze down the avenue.

"Beg pardon," he said politely. "I wanted to have another look at the broadsword there."

Very quickly—he noticed that she went about it clumsily despite her supple gracefulness—she withdrew the heavy weapon from the window and laid it upon the counter.

"I am not—not what you would call an expert," she said frankly.

"What's the price?" he asked, his courage faltering under the cool, impersonal gaze.

"I do not know. My uncle has told you. I am quite new at the trade. I hope you will excuse my ignorance. My uncle will be here in a moment."

She was turning away with an air that convinced King of one thing—she was a person who in no sense had ever been called upon to serve others.

"So I've heard," he observed. The halt took effect. She looked up quickly. He was confident that a startled expression flitted across her face.

"You have heard? What have you heard of me?" she demanded.

(To Be Continued.)

LAS CRUCES AND MESILLA VALLEYFOURTH GETS LAS CRUCES VICTIM

Pedro Gomez Shot in Hip With Bulldog Toy Pistol.

Las Cruces, N. M., July 2.—The glorious Fourth has its first 1910 victim in Las Cruces. An American bulldog toy pistol in the hands of Burrill Browning, 10 years of age, caused a hole in the thigh of Pedro Gomez, same age.

The boys had been playing with the pistol, and it is said Gomez undertook to take it from Browning, when it was discharged. Browning came to Las Cruces only a few days ago with his father, who is sick, in a wagon from Oklahoma, and has been around town the past two days with a subscription list asking for help.

A severe and painful flesh wound will keep young Gomez from celebrating any more this year.

Large Acreage of Bartlett Variety Will Be Set This Fall.

Hyland, five acres; Theo. Round, 10 acres; R. E. McBride, five acres; W. A. Fleming Jones, five acres; E. B. Hoagland, five acres; Mr. Merrill, 10 acres. Alfalfa is being shipped from this station. The river is still dry and dusty but there is water in the ditches from the diversion dam at Leesburg. From the bridge across the main ditch, numerous carcasses may be seen. Many ranchers are busy fencing their lands.

Enough signers to the petition for the change of the survey of the Camisa real have been obtained to insure success. Most all of the prominent men in the county have joined in the crusade for building a road from Las Cruces to Anthony equal to the one now constructed from Anthony to El Paso.

Steps are being taken by the Three Salts ditch to prevent its members wasting water on roads and pasture lands. The ditch has threatened to turn the water off from all who thus violate the law. Theodore Rouauk, Jr., has erected a hay scale at the station, which will be a great convenience to shippers.

Has the veil of mystery that has so long shrouded the ancient sciences been raised at last? Can it be that a system has been perfected that reveals with reasonable accuracy the character and disposition of an individual, and so outlines the life as to assist in avoiding errors and taking advantage of opportunities?

Roxroy, a man who has for 20 years been delving into the mysteries of the occult, making a scientific study of the various methods of reading the lives of people, seems to have reached a higher round in the ladder of fame than his predecessors. Letters are pouring into his office from all parts of the world telling of the benefits derived from his advice. Many of his patrons look upon him as a man gifted with some strange, mysterious power, but he modestly asserts that what he accomplishes is due alone to an understanding of natural laws.

He is a man of kindly feeling toward humanity, and his manner and tone immediately impress one with his sincere belief in his work. A huge stack of grateful letters from people who have received readings from him adds to other convincing proof as to his ability. Even Astrologers and Palmists admit that his system surpasses anything yet introduced.

The Rev. G. C. H. Passakari, Ph. D., Pastor of St. Paul's Evangelical Lutheran church, in a letter to Prof. Roxroy, says: "You are certainly the greatest specialist and master of your profession. Everyone consulting you will marvel at the correctness of your personal readings and advice. The most skeptical will consult you again and again after corresponding with you once."

If you wish to take advantage of Roxroy's generous offer and obtain a free reading, send your date, month and year of birth, state whether (Mr., Mrs. or Miss) and also copy the following verse in your own handwriting: I have heard of your power and the read people's lives.

And would ask what for me you have to advise?

Be sure to give your correct name, birth date and address and write plainly. Send your letter to ROXROY, Dept. 43 E. No. 177a Kensington High street, London, W., England. If you wish, you may inclose 10 cents (U. S. A. stamps) to pay postage, clerical work, etc. Do not inclose coins or silver in letters.
